

"Leading in Turbulent Times: Leadership Principles for Business Leaders."

Col. Leonard Kloeber Jr, author of VICTORY PRINCIPLES: Leadership Lessons from D-Day, graduated from the US Military Academy at West Point and the US Army General Staff Officer Course. Len has extensive hands-on experience as a leader in both the military and business organizations which he uses to help people and organizations maximize their potential and performance.

His business experience includes leadership positions in broad range of private and public organizations. He has led and managed start-up businesses and also held leadership positions with large public companies. He has over twenty years of front-line management experience in operations and business development, and more recently, nine years experience as senior human resources executive for a Fortune 100 multi-national company.

His military career includes over thirty years of active and reserve service. He has experience in command and staff positions in small and large military organizations. He has commanded units at the company, battalion, and brigade level. He has also held a variety of senior general staff positions as a G-1 (personnel officer), chief of staff, and an Inspector General.

Len also has an MBA from Boston University and a JD from William Mitchell College of Law. He lives in Prior Lake, Minnesota.

Available for luncheon keynote and short programs or extended leadership workshops:

"Leading in Turbulent Times: Leadership Principles for Business Leaders."

Business success today requires strong leaders for challenging times. Now leaders can learn valuable leadership lessons from history. Col. Leonard Kloeber will review seven essential leadership principles that all successful leaders use as described in his upcoming book: VICTORY PRINCIPLES: Leadership Lessons from D-Day. Learn how you can put these same principles to work today as a leader in your own organization, your community, or in your personal life.

Contact Information: len.kloeber.jr@gmail.com Phone: 952-334-4477